Event Description: On the day of the event, 200 uniquely numbered ping pong balls (1-200) are placed into a clear tumbler. Cards numbered 1-200 are placed on a wall at the front of the event venue and are visible to all attendees. A Post officer/board member draws the balls from the tumbler one by one and announces each number drawn. As each numbered ball is drawn from the tumbler, the card with the corresponding number is removed from the wall. The premise of the event is that the person with ticket bearing number of the last ball which has not been drawn from the tumbler wins the grand prize. After each 50 balls are drawn, the event is stopped and a reconciliation is made for accuracy of the drawn and remaining numbers. The 50th, 100th, and 150th numbers drawn win a door prize and are not eligible for the grand prize. Once only ten balls remain in the tumbler, the ticket holders of the remaining ten numbers are given the options to split the grand prize evenly. If the remaining ticket holders unanimously agree to split the grand prize, then it will be split among those ticket holders. If there is not unanimous agreement, then another ball will be drawn and the remaining nine tickets holders will be give the option to split the grand prize evenly. If there is not unanimous agreement, then another ball will be drawn and the routine will be repeated until there is unanimous agreement among the remaining ticket holders to split the grand prize evenly or until there is only one ticket holder remaining.

The owner of the ticket is not required to be present at the event to win, but the ticket itself must be present. If a number is drawn and the ticket is not present then that ticket will be disqualified from the event. It will then be necessary to draw the next number or in the event it was the last number to be drawn for the event then the preceding number will be declared the winner. The event is held publicly and all the foregoing steps are done in the open for all present to observe.
